Leadership & Time Management

Leadership is for the Birds

This course is two hours of discovery to be enjoyed by leaders and front-line staff alike. Understanding why you are the way you are and that everyone else is probably wired differently can make a world of difference when you are leading a team or interacting with a guest. This fast-paced, FUN program is always rated as a TOP class whether we are training at a multi-center educational event or if we are on site working with individual teams.

Time Management

Learn some of the best techniques to ensure you'll get more done in less time and drop the stress of too much to do and too little time to get it all done. Prioritization is key to getting the right things done at the right time. The ability to delegate and elevate others to help you carry out the billion things that reflect the highest and best use of your skills and ability!
